VOLUME THIRTY-THREE

The Tribune Begins The Thirty-third Year of Its Life With This Issue—A Glance Over The Past and a Look Toward The Future—Help Us Carry Out Program.

The present issue of the Tribune marks the beginning of the thirty-third year of continuous publication since the paper was established in 1883. This issue is in fact an anniversary number and we are celebrating the event by putting out a twelve page edition this week. We do not wish to take the credit for this act to ourselves for it belongs to our advertisers who have crowded our pages with substantial and interesting news concerning various kinds of merchandise, which after all is of prime importance to a large majority of our readers.

We have finished the thirty-second year of our existence as a County Newspaper and we are not ashamed of the record that has been made. The Tribune has established a place for itself among the people of the county as a reliable news paper—it has given the news of the county seat town and the county government to people in all parts of the county and it has been a factor in developing a feeling of neighborliness among all the citizens of the county. It has gone to all parts of the United States and in foreign countries as a "Letter from Home" to absent ones, carrying news of loved ones, neighbors and friends to cheer homesick hearts, to hold fast the home ties and to call the wanderers back from their wanderings to the "old home folks."

Through all the years this paper has stood for the best things in the progress and development of the community and the cause of right has been championed always in its columns. The men who have worked in the past to accomplish these tasks were not laggards and the task of the editors and publishers of a county newspaper is not an easy one; Sherwood, Knapp, Philhart, Smith, Jameson, Shinnaberger, Reighard; these are the men who have woven the fabric of the Tribune's past record and right well have they labored; the present publishers find it a pleasure to carry on a work so well begun. But not to these alone is due the credit for the splendid record of the past; there is a long list of correspondents and contributors who have worked to make the Tribune what it is and wish they must be counted the army of subscribers and advertisers who by their patronage have made it possible for this paper to continue its publication through the years. We remember with grateful appreciation those who have labored in the past and look forward to the future with new courage and determination for the remainder.

We feel that we have the good will and the support of a large number of people than ever before in the history of the paper and we look forward to years of progress in efficient service to its community for The Fulton County Tribune: Editors and publishers come and go, but we believe that the Tribune will continue with the people of Fulton county through the years to come, rendering the service which is within the province of a county newspaper to render and proving itself in the future as in the past an important factor in the development and progress of the civilization of the county.

Our aim will be to increase the efficiency of our service to the public, to stand for and champion the cause of right and justice as it is given us of information that you would like to have published these things that make for the public good and welfare and to give reliable news to our readers. We ask for the help of our friends in carrying out this program.

When you have an item of news let the editors know. If there is any item of information that you would like to have published write the paper requesting it; if you have an opinion in regard to any matter of importance write it out and send it in; in such ways as this you will help to make The Tribune one of the best weekly papers in the State.

A TRIBUTE.

In the passing of Rev. Martha M. Moore, Wauseon Chapter D. A. R. loses an efficient and worthy member whose pure minded warm hearted kindness is cherished, and should be emulated by us all. Her beautiful thoughts gave her life a higher course, a nobler plane than many of us reach. We shall miss her helpfulness, her strong friendship and her restful benedictions. Our most sincere sympathy is extended to the few who are left of the family circle.

Mrs. Minnie Waid Darby,
Mrs. Eva B. Struble,
Mrs. Sarah H. Kenyon,
Committee.

BELGIAN FLAG DAY.
It is the wish of the Wauseon Chapter D. A. R. to publicly thank the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls and others who worked so faithfully and efficiently through the storm last Saturday selling the Belgian flags. On account of this splendid work of our young people and the generous response of our citizens many Belgians will be more comfortable for a time at least.

Something over fifty dollars is the result of this campaign in our town. The greater part has been sent on to the Relief Commission and some yet remains to be gathered in.

SARAH H. KENYON, Regent.

FOR COUNTY AUDITOR.
I beg permission to announce that I shall be a candidate for the nomination to the office of Auditor of Fulton county at the Republican primary August 8, 1916.

BOOSTERS CLUB

Regular Monthly Meeting at T. and L. Hall Monday Evening—Small Attendance—Many Items of Interest Discussed—Communications Received—Committees Appointed.

It was a rather small number of club members that were present at the regular April meeting of the Wauseon Boosters Club, last Monday evening, but the small attendance did not seem to interfere with the work to be accomplished at this meeting. President G. E. Howe was in the chair and called the club to order, after the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting the secretary presented a communication from the Secretary of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor, calling attention to the scarcity of materials for making paper and asking the club to co-operate with the Department in urging upon the public the importance of saving the scrap and waste paper. The club members expressed a willingness to respond to this request in so far as possible.

Mr. Deyo read a communication from the Toledo Commerce Club asking him to post and distribute literature in regard to testing seed corn; the club voted to instruct Mr. Deyo to have bill posted posters furnished by the Toledo Commerce Club posted in Wauseon.

Sundry small bills were presented and ordered paid.

Resolutions concerning a Barber note for $400 representing funds of the business mens association deposited in the Barber banks were also adopted appointing Mr. F. H. Wolf to look after the securing of said note or a duplicate thereof.

On motion the chair appointed Ed. Scott, Roy Hoy and Henry Brieser a committee to co-operate with the Civic League and the Woman's Club in conducting the annual Wauseon "Clean Up Day."

Some matters were discussed and referred to the executive committee. Supt. M. L. Altstetter presented the matter of prizes for those pupils who stood first in the recent spelling contest in the public schools of Wauseon and $400 was voted for this purpose. Allen Hetzel took the first place in the High School and Nola Woodward first in the grades. The county spelling contest will be held May 10th.

Superintendent Perry called attention of the club to a Rally Day of the schools of the county to be held on the Fair Grounds May 15th; the program will include an address by Governor Willis, a basket dinner, games and contests.

The club adjourned to the next regular meeting on the second Monday in May.

THE FIRST CAMPAIGN

Napoleon's First Campaign for Vienna The Defeat of The Allies at Austerlitz—Items of History That Influence The Present European Situation

By Earle M. Wood

Although Napoleon has driven the Austrians out of Italy, he had by no means conquered them. Austria was more determined than ever to win back her lost possessions from France, so when Napoleon was busy with some naval plans regarding the invasion of England, Austria sought to form an alliance with Russia and Prussia against him. Prussia held back from making any agreement, for she well knew how powerful the French army was, but Russia, jealous of the power of France, was ready to plot with Austria for the destruction of that country. The Austrian Emperor, Francis, and the Czar Alexander, after working out a campaign decided to strike Napoleon first on German soil. Accordingly, a large Austrian army was sent through the minor German states and was stationed at Ulm, where they planned to meet a Russian army which was to reform them. Napoleon saw that he must move quickly to prevent this joining, so he marched his troops into Germany and fell upon the Austrians at Ulm. The Austrians were so surprised that they did not offer any great resistance, and they surrendered the city with thousands of prisoners to the French Emperor.

Resolved to complete his victory over Austria before the forces of Russia could come to her assistance, he pushed on to Vienna. The Emperor Francis fled to the north with his army to join the Czar who was hastening southward to aid him. But Napoleon had marched into Vienna and had taken up his abode in the imperial palace, at the same time planning to pursue the Austrians and give battle outside the walls of the city.

When Napoleon's troops had marched about eighty-five miles to the northward, they came upon the Austrians and Russians at the village of Austerlitz. The battlefield was dominated by a high hill called Pratzen Hill which the Allies eagerly seized upon as a commanding position.

The next day the Austrians and Russians began their operations against the French by throwing huge bodies of country into action. Napoleon had been clever enough to spread his army out so that it was necessary for the Allies to spread out also in order to successfully combat him. When they did this Napoleon, in a long line, they did not realize that the French had a large body of troops in reserve to hurl against their weakened center.

After the infantry fighting had lasted several hours, Napoleon thought it was time to take Pratzen Hill and win the battle. He therefore gave his orders that the heights were to be stormed, and as the hill was held only by comparatively few Russians, his troops did not experience very great difficulty in rushing up the slopes and driving the Russians down the other side in confusion. Immediately after the capture of the hill, Prince Murat's cavalry fiercely attacked the center of the Allies' army, cutting the main body into two parts. One wing succeeded in making an escape, but the other was compelled to flee across a frozen river to safety. The French guns, now mounted on Pratzen Hill, opened fire on the ice, which cracked beneath the weight of the cannon and carried two of the Russian troops and thousands of Russians to their death.

The Allies retreated from the field in great disorder and hastened northward to escape further punishment, but the Emperor Francis remained to sue for peace. The two Emperors met at a country windmill, and Francis signed the peace treaty of Pressburg, the Treaty of the Trentino, Venice and Dalmatia. The Austrian uprising against France had cost dear, and the Emperor Napoleon was the most powerful monarch in Europe.

In order to convince Austria that he was in a position to dictate terms, he sought an alliance with the German state of Bavaria. The King of Bavaria had a marriageable daughter who Napoleon decided to marry to his stepson, Prince Eugene, viceregent of Italy. The King of Bavaria was betrothed to the Duke of Baden. Napoleon annulled the betrothal at once, and gave the Duke Josephine's cousin a bride, so that the Bavarian princess could marry Eugene. By this master stroke, he bound France to Bavaria and Baden at once, so that Austria saw that her domination of Germany was over. Germany had always been a free road through which she could march her armies against Paris, but now she saw that the German highways were barred against her. Austria had been completely crushed, and she shrank from the thought of another war with Napoleon.

MISS CHLOE EDGAR.

Miss Chloe Edgar, of Wauseon, a member of the sophomore class of Miami University, will appear in the production of the musical organization of the school, April 14th and 15th. The entire production will be given by Miami students, under the direction of Professor Aubrey W. Martin, head of the department of drama in the institution. This is the first that any collegiate institution in the state has attempted the staging of a grand opera, excepting, of course, those devoted exclusively to musical interests. The abundance of excellent vocal talent among the students has led Professor Martin to attempt the production of the opera, which is being eagerly looked forward to by the musical patrons in southern Ohio.

The fact that Miss Edgar has been chosen for the leading soprano role speaks volumes for her ability as a singer. Since her matriculation at the University last year, she has been very prominent in the musical organizations of the school, having been a member of the three organizations of this kind open to women; the Madrigal Club, the Arion Choir, and the Choral Club. She has a wide circle of friends in the University who are anticipating her appearance in the opera with much pleasure. She is a popular member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

WEEKLY WEATHER FORECAST.

Unusually early weather will prevail the first half of the week over the great central valleys and the districts east thereof, with probably frosts throughout the interior of the Gulf and South Atlantic States, except the Florida Peninsula, and freezing temperatures throughout the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the Lake region, the Middle Atlantic and New England States. The latter half of the week in these regions will be much warmer. Comparatively warm weather will prevail throughout the week west of the Rocky Mountains, and considerably warmer weather will set in over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region Monday and Tuesday and moderate temperatures will continue thereafter until the close of the week.

The storm that now covers the Ohio Valley and the Middle Atlantic States will advance northward and be attended by snows Sunday in the Ohio Valley and lower Lake region, and snow or rain in the North Atlantic States. With this exception generally fair weather will prevail throughout the coming week.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.
Whereas: Clarence E. Brigham, for many years a leading business man of Wauseon and closely identified during all the years of his business activity with the development and progress of this town has been removed by death.

Resolved: That in the decease of Mr. Brigham the town has lost one of its best citizens; a gentleman in every respect, his record for honesty and integrity stands without blemish. His influence among his business associates has been always beneficial. His quiet dignity and his sound judgment have been a potent factor in establishing high business standards in this town. We sincerely regret his decease and extend our sympathy to his family.

Resolved: That these resolutions be transcribed upon the minutes of this club and published in the town papers.

CLYDE C. GRIM.
Clyde C. the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Grim passed away on Tuesday morning after a serious sickness which had afflicted him for some weeks. Funeral services were held at the home on Oak street, Thursday at 10:00 o'clock and burial made in Wauseon cemetery. Rev. J. A. Wharton officiated. The little fellow was three months and four days old. Mr. and Mrs. Grim have the sympathy of all who know them in their day of trouble.

A GOOD CITIZEN

C. E. Brigham, One Of Wauseon's Best Citizens Passes On—For a Third of a Century in Active Business Life—His Departure Generally Regretted.

Clarence Elsworth Brigham departed this life shortly after noon on Friday April 7, 1916, aged fifty-five years, five months and twenty-two days. His death came just one week to a day from the time he had been brought home from Florida, where he had gone in October in the hope that he might regain, somewhat, his health. The cause was bright's disease.

Mr. Brigham had been in ill health for several years and an invalid for more than a year. Accompanied by his wife and her mother he had gone to the fall to Windermere, Florida, where he owned a cottage. But instead of regaining any strength as he and his family and friends had hoped, he soon became very ill, and well considering his condition, his health, he might regain, somewhat, his health. The cause was bright's disease.

But instead of regaining any strength as he and his family and friends had hoped, he soon became very ill, and well considering his condition, his health, he might regain, somewhat, his health. The cause was bright's disease.

Mr. Brigham was the son of the late Joel and Betsey Lyon Brigham, pioneer residents of Wauseon and Clinton township, and was born in Wauseon October 18, 1860. He was one of a family of ten brothers and sisters, only five of whom grew to maturity, the late Postmaster Walter S. Brigham, Haven T. Brigham, the late Mrs. Harriett B. Sohn, Mrs. Celia Bennett, and himself. With the exception of about a year when he had a temporary residence in Mayfield, Kentucky, he had resided all his life in Wauseon. He was educated in the Wauseon public schools, graduating with the Class of 1879. At the close of his school days he became a clerk in his father's hardware store, in which he later obtained a complete ownership. With the exception of three years Mr. Brigham was identified with this business all of his active life and was thus a part of the business of Wauseon for a third of a century. In 1905 Mr. Brigham sold his hardware business which then became merged in the department store newly organized in Wauseon by W. L. Miller, of Toledo.

For about a year Mr. Brigham was manager of an independent telephone plant at Mayfield, Kentucky, later returning to Wauseon where, for two years, he found employment in the Bank of Wauseon. In 1908, however, he became manager of the business of Wauseon where, for two years, he found employment in the Bank of Wauseon. In 1908, however, he became manager of the business of Wauseon where, for two years, he found employment in the Bank of Wauseon.

Mr. Brigham was married to Miss Inez Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Scott on October 15, 1885, the day before his twenty-fifth birthday. It is to this companion of his, who has so faithfully cared for him during his illness, that the heartfelt sympathy of friends and neighbors now goes.

Few men in Wauseon have so held the confidence of the people of the community as did Mr. Brigham during his lifetime. A man of the utmost integrity, he also possessed remarkable tact and judgment, and manifested the kindest good will toward every one. It was a pleasure for him to accommodate people, and Mrs. Dorothy Geyer Longnecker, since his death many have been the expression of personal loss made not only by older people, but as well by young people and children. (He was likewise very fond of music.) A Christian in character and belief, though never publicly professed, the influence and example of Mr. Brigham will always be a help to those who knew him and loved him.

Funeral services were held at the home on Monday forenoon, April 10, conducted by Rev. B. G. Bowman. The home was filled with business associates, friends and neighbors attesting to the high regard in which Mr. Brigham was held in his home town. Employees of The Brigham, Guilford

PETIT JURY

Petit Jury For April Term of Common Pleas Court on Duty for Two Days—Two Cases Disposed of—Dismissed for Time Being—Judges Exchange.

The petit jury for the April term of Court were assembled Monday morning and a jury was impaneled to hear the case of Arthur Shambarger vs. Charles Shambarger. This case is some what peculiar and seems to have grown out of a family misunderstanding in regard to a horse, more or less venerable which according to the plaintiff had been given him by his father Charles Shambarger the defendant in the suit. The defendant claimed that he had only given him the privilege of using the horse. Last fall the horse was chloroformed under the direction of defendant who engaged Frankie Knapp Jr., to superintend the process and who took the hide from the carcass which he buried. The plaintiff sought to recover the price of the horse. Witnesses for both sides were heard Monday and an evening session of court was made necessary, the case was given to the jury at about eight o'clock p.m. and they returned a verdict awarding plaintiff $500 at 9:30 p.m.

Tuesday morning jury and witnesses were present to try the case of Sherman Free vs. Mrs. Barbara Herrmann, a suit to recover damages for personal injuries received by plaintiff while working on defendant's farm in the sum of $5000.

The case was settled before the case was called in court by the payment of $100.00 to the plaintiff and the court granted defendant a stay in execution for costs for four months. Judge Snook of Paulding occupied the bench Tuesday, Judge Wolf filling the Paulding bench. The jury were dismissed for the time being but will be called again later as there are a number of cases on the docket for trial.

IN MEMORIAM.
With sincere regret the Wauseon Chapter D. A. R. learns of the death in New York of Mrs. Amy Haubel Geyer. Before her removal from Swanton she was a member of our Chapter.

Mrs. Geyer reached the ideal place of woman. She was a true and faithful wife, a wise and loving mother. She watched with keen enjoyment the development and advancement of her children and her plans for them were more nearly realized than those of most mothers.

We wish as a Chapter, to extend our deepest sympathy to her son William Geyer, and to her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Geyer Longnecker, who is a loved member of the Wauseon Chapter D. A. R.
